Lions Club to Gather Toys

Forrest Baxter, president of the Lemon Grove Lion's Club has appointed John Hill as the local chairman of a Toy Turnout campaign. This week, members of Lions Clubs all over the United States are embarking upon a service activity that perhaps involves more people than any similar project ever instituted.

Using the Columbia network, Lions are asking 30 million people to give a "new or well mended" toy to the Toy Turnout project. In the interests of this activity, 27000 Lions are expected to play Santa Claus to the underprivileged children in the California-Nevada district alone.

Chairman John Hill wishes it understood that all toys collected in this vicinity will be redistributed here, and that each toy will be delivered to the right child on or before Christmas morning. The right child will be found through charitable agencies, teachers, club leaders, ministers, and others whose fingers are at all times on the pulse of the underprivileged.

Particulars may be learned by contacting Lion chairman John Hill and by listening to the 7:45 CBS Fred Beck program each morning. On this broadcast, Mr. Beck will mention the Toy Turnout periodically until Thanksgiving, and daily thereafter.

Cloyed Makes Remarkable Race

Ralph R. Cloyed of Chula Vista was elected Assemblyman for the 80th Assembly District Tuesday by a substantial margin over his nearest opponent, Edwin M. Campbell.

In the four-man race high man was elected, regardless of the vote cast.

Cloyed made a strong fight for the job, and made known without hesitation his position on the various issues of the campaign.

With only 44 precincts missing out of the district's 276, Cloyed had 14,664 to 12,149 for Campbell. Bulen got 7078 votes and Neron 3186.

With three Republicans and one Democrat in the race, many people felt that the Democrat would win a walk. The 80th has never elected a Democratic Assemblyman in a state election, and Cloyed keeps the record complete this year.

There is a rumor that Cramer, who resigned as Assemblyman, because the pay was too low, will be a candidate at the primaries next year.

Resigning under such conditions, and attempting to make a come back when the pay is boosted, will not set too well with the voters, so the Review doubts if Cramer will cut much figure in next year's race.

Congratulations have been rolling to Mr. Cloyed since early Tuesday evening when trend showed him to be holding a steady lead in the race. After the first returns, there never was a doubt as to his election.

Benson Joins Constitutional Group in S. D.

Andy Benson, who has been secretary of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce, has resigned his position with the local organization to devote his entire time to the "Constitutional Foundation," as its executive director.

The organization has just been formed in San Diego for the purpose of educating the people of the United States in the fundamentals of the American Constitution. Its aim is to swing the tide away from the welfare state as headed by the President.

The prospectus of the Foundation says: "The Defenders of the American Constitution is a non-partisan and non-profit organization, and has for its objective the protection of our individual freedom through a campaign of education. It was founded by San Diegans drawn together through mutual concern over the unwarranted power vested in the Federal government—power not provided for in the Constitution of the United States.

"The power so invested in the federal government is dangerous to our freedom in that political appointees, over a period of years, have usurped the functions of our elected officials in the writing and enforcement of regulations based on laws passed by Congress, such regulations bearing little relation to the law but having the same force and effect.

"The organization cannot and will not endorse any candidate for public office, but it will be our purpose, through a questionaire, to determine whether or not any person running for office believes in, subscribes to, and agrees to support the principles for which we stand."

Mr. Benson's offices are at 650 San Diego Trust building, and he entered upon his new duties Monday.

Lutherans Hold Organization Service for Church Here

Sunday, November 6, became a historical date for Lemon Grove Lutheran Church, which meets in the Seventh Day Adventist Church. The Organizational Service, which took place last Sunday, will be marked in the future as an anniversary date of the congregation. At the service the congregation was officially organized and 23 families received as its charter members, totaling 70 souls in all.

The day was climaxed with a Fellowship supper in the evening at the Forward clubhouse. Close to 70 persons were in attendance. After the dinner, devotional service and interesting program was provided, closing with home movies by Carl Liebig.

Pastor Elster says that the future of the congregation is very bright, and that it has made a good beginning during these first few months. A choir has been organized under the leadership of Carl Liebig. A Sunday School of close to 60 is under the leadership of Dr. Otto Schlict. A Ladies Aid has been organized with close to 20 members with Mrs. V. Duea as the president; Mrs. Roy Tormondson, vice president; Mrs. P. R. Svalstad, secretary and Mrs. Van Wagner, treasurer.

The field is large and the pastor and congregation are looking forward to the near future when a church home and facilities of their own will increase the church's capacity for service to Lemon Grove community.

Anyone without a church home is cordially invited to attend the services and guests will always be given a friendly welcome.

The formation of the "Constitutional Foundation" by a group of San Diego citizens is a step in the right direction, though long delayed. The objective of this organization is to tell the people of the United States in a language that they will understand, just what is taking place in this country, how we are being pushed toward the welfare state, and how bureaucrats have written decrees and regulations which amount to laws. Tighe Woods, federal housing adminitrator admits that four new rules for landlords seeking increases in rents were not part of the 1949 Rent Control Law, but had been written by him. It is such things as this that are getting this nation into deep water, and it is time Congress removed all powers not authorized by the Constitution from the statute books. Ever since the advent of the New Deal the admininstration has been seeking, and getting more power at every session of Congress, and this power has been turned over to bureaucrats, who have written regulations which have had the effect of law. This creates a government by men instead of by law, as intended by the framers of the Constitution. The San Diego group should receive the support of every person who believes in the American system. And it is time we are finding out who the others are.

Congressman Nixon of the Twelfth District has made an excellent record during his two terms in Congress. He served on the un-American Activities Committee as well as other important committees. To get to Congress he unseated Jerry Voorhis, a hard to beat slick politician, who in 1934 changed his registration from Socialist to Democrat and filed for the Democratic nomination for Congressman. Voorhis withstood attacks from such Republican opponents as Frederick F. Houser, former Lieutenant-Governor and now Superior Court Judge, and the fighting Rev. Bob Shuler. Nixon defeated him in 1946. Now Nixon wants to go to the U. S. Senate. The writer is sorry to note this. He has made good as a Congressman and probably could have represented his district for many more years to come. These young fellows get ambitioius too fast. What this country needs is a few more Joe Cannons—fellows who are content to stay on the job until their mission is finished.

The Marshall Plan of today is a far cry from what probably most Americans understood Marshall to mean when he said in a speech that the European countries should take stock of their assets and this country would try to match them in an attempt to bring about recovery in the war-torn lands. Some of the countries are setting back and lettinng Uncle Sam do all the work. Marshall Plan Administrator Hoffman called some of them on it a few days ago. It is time people began to help themselves.

FROM THE NEWS CIRCUIT

JAMES DORAIS

The story of cotton growing in California is one of rags to riches, but it has few twists in it that deviates from the original Horatio Alger plot.

When cotton farming was in its infancy here, yields were low and quality was bad. California cotton had a wrong side of the tracks reputation with cotton buyers.

Today, as a result of the one variety crop law imposed on themselves by a majority of the growers and the development of superior strains, California produces a long staple, strong fibre cotton that has come to be recognized as premium-grade with buyers all over the world.

European mills are using California cotton for the first time this year. It is preferred for industrial uses, where special strength is needed, and it is woven for premium grades of clothing.

Yield per acre here is the great est in the country. The 1949 crop is the biggest on record—1,300,000 bales from an estimated 963,000 acres. That makes California the fourth largest cotton producing State this year.

Best of all, as the current crop is being harvested, California growers are getting a premium price. Though ordinary cotton is a glut on the market—California cotton isn't. Southern cotton farmers have yet millions of bales go to the Government support price of $145 a bale. But of the one-third of the crop ginned so far in California, less than 1% has gone into Government loan.

The future of California cotton should be bright. The South's loss should be California's gain. And as more and more cotton is grown here, California should expect to see established a full-fledged textile industry.

Unfortunately, it's not likely to work out that way. In the Horatio Alger stories, there were no limits to the rewards of industry and initiative, but we've come a long way from Horatio Alger.

Today, mediocrity pays off. After this year, the South—where growing methods are inefficient, where varieties are inferior, where the boll weavil runs rampant, where yields are dependent on the vagaries of rainfall instead of controlled irrigation—is to be subsidized at the expense of California.

To keep from going broke buying up surplus cotton, the Government has established acreage controls. Because the South has been in the business longer, growers there will be favored. Their acreage cut will be only 20 percent. California's cut will amount to a whopping 33 1.3 percent.

Next year, there will be only about 643,000 acres planted to cotton in California. Production will be well under a million bales. Prospects for the development of a California textile industry are dimmer.

Cotton farming in California has come a long way. But it's going back a few paces.

Political Parade

CLEM WHITAKER, Jr.

While most normal people are beginning to dream of Thanks-giving turkeys or possibly even of Christmas and New Year's Day, there's one unpredictable breed of human being with nary a thought for anything but the months April to September, 1950 The exact months varies from State to State.

This strange species of man kind with but one thought in mind, is the politician. More specifically, the politician who lives, breathes and dreams of con vincing people that he should be elected to public office or kept in public office.

(There is a fine point of difference here. For while people often find it hard to distinguish between politicians as Republicans and Democrats, they themselves know of a very real difference. It can be expressed best as follows: There are two major political parties, not because there are two sides to every political issue, but because there are two sides to every political office—inside and the outside.

Thus, 1950 is another crucial year for "the two major political parties," as those on the outside want to get in and those on the inside very much wish to stay in. With the exception of two states Connecticut and Delaware, the battles will be in two parts—a Primary Election where Republicans fight it out with Republicans and Democrats with Democrats and a General Election where the winning Democrat tackles the winning Republican.

Here are the dates of State Primary Elections across the nation: Illinois, April 11; New Jersey, April 18; Alabama, Florida, Indiana and Ohio, May 2; Pennsylvania, May 16; Oregon, May 19; North Carolina, May 27.

Iowa, June 5; California, New Mexico and South Dakota, June 6; Maine, June 19; North Dakota, June 27; Oklahoma, July 4 (tentatively); Montana, July 18; Texas, July 22; Arkansas, July 25 (tentatively); Kansas, Missouri, Virginia and West Virginia, August 1; Tennessee, August 3, Kentucky, August 5; Idaho and South Carolina August 8; Nebraska, August 15; Mississippi and Wyoming, August 22; New York, August 29 (tentatively).

Nevada and Utah, September 5; Georgia, September 10; (tentatively); Maryland, September 11; Arizona, Colorado, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Vermont and Washington, September 12; Rhode Island, September 12 and 22; Massachusetts and Wisconsin, September 19.

Those are the dates high up on the politicians lists. Toward them, every candidate for office slants near every word. For the public (politicians say) is a fickle lot—it knows not what it wants!

Talks and Walks With Mother Nature

BY TRIXIE TREGANZA

ROAD-RUNNER

Speaking of bird personalities, some of my little feathered folk are just as original and entertaining and funny as they can be. One in particular reminds me of a mischievous school boy who is always cutting didos to amuse his chums, whose long, gangling legs sticking out of his pants remind him that he is at the cross road of life, that he is neither man nor boy, and that appetite. Well, Mother just can't fill him up.

Some morning when you are walking over Lemon Grove boulevards with some of your Mexican school mates, suddenly you will see one point a finger and shout excitedly, Paisano, Corre Camino and across your path will run just plain, homely Mr. Road-runner. Some of his other nicknames are Chaparrel Cock, Ground Cuckoo, Lizard Bird and Snake Killer and in one way or another he lives up to every one of these names.

A bird-lover once said that he was "a Cuckoo compounded of a chicken and a magpie." He is first cousin to the Cuckoo and for size measures up to a Leghorn pullet. The orange and blue bare space around his eyes make them seem larger than they really are and give him quite a fierce look with the stiff, bristly head and neck feathers. His dress is coarse and harsh and generally pale brown streaked with brownish white, mottled with bronzy green and sort of glossed over with bluish black. His tail as long as body and bill together is chiefly black with large white thumb marks at the end of each feather. Powerful legs and strong feet sort of balance up for his short, stubby wings, and his bill, is strong and slender and about two inches long. Now you will surely recognize Mr. Road-runner the very next time he crosses your path or tries to race you. Of course the modern auto is too much for him, but he has often kept pace with a swift horse, right down the middle of the road until he reached a high place when he would spread out his stubby wings and soar off into the underbrush.

And Mr. Road-runner is a regular Adonis when he goes courting. He struts about the cactus and friskly jumps upon a rock and pumps out several loud, mournful love-notes some thing like a Mourning Dove's or perhaps he will burst forth in like the excited cackle of old Mother Hen calling her chicks for a choice morsel of food. But withal he is a very devoted father and helps with all the family cares. Both Mr. and Mrs. Road-runner are quite unsociable, in fact they haven't any time left after they have satisfied the demands of their appetites, even their four to eight white eggs are not hatched at one setting which takes about 18 days. The nest very often contains babies of different sizes, the smallest only a day old and perhaps a fresh egg, because Mother and Daddy Road-runner simply couldn't forage enough grasshoppers and beetles and snakes and lizards and frogs, centipeds, caterpillars, mice and cactus apples in one day to feed themselves and a big family too.

You will find them at home on hilly ground covered with cactus, yucca, prickly pear, cholla and thorny undergrowth. The nest is an assortment of sticks of varying lengths finer ones in the middle and decorated with manure chips, a few feathers, dry mesquite seed pods or maybe bits of snake-skin according to their fancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Road-runner are generally shy and suspicious but they are so inquisitive that they will venture to your very own back door-step to pick up crumbs with the chickens. When taken young they make very interesting and amusing pets; but they are always so hungry that it would keep a husky boy on the move to find enough food to supply three squares a day. Maybe some of you have heard Grandfather spin marvellous yarns about the strange ways of this curious bird and how it could hold its own in a battle and very often outwit a rattle-snake.

Forward Club

Current trends in floral designs were studied recently by Forward Garden Section members and guests. Following Mrs. Ted Haaf's review of the activities of this Section, which meets once a month under the leadership of Mrs. R. I. Seder, color slides showing unusual ways to stress flowers in home decoration were presented by a Coca Cola Company representative.

George Baily, La Mesa, was introduced by Mrs. Lawrence Carr. Mr. Baily's constructive criticism of the many flower arrangements submitted by club members resulted in the selection of three outstanding displays—yellow roses in an ivory bowl, from Mrs. Frank Barber's garden; Mrs. George F. Lipp's entry, bird-of-paradise against a fan shaped palm frond in a copper bowl; and a red blossom of sprekelia in a low, white ceramic dish by Mrs. Lee J. Thompson. Also of interest was an exhibit of prize chrysanthemums grown by Mrs. Ross B. Hayhurst and arranged by Mrs. J. W. Lowery. Mrs. J. Felber presided at the refreshment table.

Mesdames Ted Haaf, R. E. Issott, W. A. Massey and Elizabeth Parsons attended the San Diego County Federation Board meeting at Escondido Saturday.

SCHOOL NEWS

JUNIOR HIGH NEWS

S. K. Solleder, director of education, has announced that a new type report card will be used in the seventh and eighth grades this year. The former report fails to meet the requirements of the newly organized departmentalized program, where pupils have several different teachers during the day.

Emphasis is being placed upon each child's effort to work at his best ability at all times. Therefore, children are graded upon whether or not they work to their individual capacity, rather than being graded on a comparison of each child's work with all other members of the class.

These new cards will be issued at the end of the first quarter on Thursday.

On Friday afternoon the Dramatics class of the Junior High presented its first program of the year in the school cafeteria. This elective class is under the direction of Harry But'er, meeting daily in Room 26 during the seventh period.

Five short plays were given. The play, the chairman, and the actors will be listed inn the order in which they were presented. "Late for Her Date," a teen-ager's lesson in promptness, by Marlene Dawson; Emma Lou Henderson, Arlene Kenworthy, Carol Covert and Rosemary Blalock.

"The Strict Father," a comedy skit, with Patricia Pfister, Jerry Tucker, Paul Beighle, Linda Young, Janet Moore and Kay Thomas.

"The Operation," by Irvin Brown, Paul Beighle and Jerry Tucker.

The audience was entertained between scenes with a novelty song, sung by Carol Dunstead and Beverly Loper.

"Meet Me at Berry and Oak," the fourth play by Christine Medeiros, Mona McIntosh, Diane Lairsey, Janet Groger and Lillian Goad.

"Smokey, the Fire Prevention Bear," was the only skit not written by the young actors themselves. It starred Yvonne Boucher, Mary Rewicz, Margaretha Schleif and Francis Whiting.

Last week at Junior High, the girls of the seventh and eighth grades completed their season of field hockey and held play-offs on Thursday. Coach Bernard Davis, head of the physical education department, announced the following results. He is assisted in coaching by Mel Frailey, Fabian Egan and Eldon Goodall.

In eighth grades, first place was captured by the team captained by Anna Castellanos, her team having Donna Easley, Doreen Eberly, Diane Jones, Jackie Olson, Yvonne Boucher, Katherine Bradshaw, Diane Lairsey, Ivajean Curtis, Margie Fick, Romona Hathaway, Joan Lewis, Cecelia Lyons, Teresa Martin, Bernadette Medina and Christine Medeiras.

Second place went to Captain Mary Finch and Pat Reid, Pat Weber, Janet Groger, Avadon Winkler, Marline Dawson, Diane Cassell, Jane Fischer, Arlene Kenworthy Helen Maxon, Ruth Finnerty, Caroline Oliver, Darlene Lemke, Marilyn Marriot, Carol Covert, Muriel Henderson, Mary Rewicz, Francis Bernosky, Connie Hunt and Betty Campbell.

The third place team was headed by Janet Moore with Francis Whiting, Lila Miles, Evelyn Wentzel, Mary Dickson, Kay Riley, Shirley Westmoreland, Ruth Cochran, Nancy Parsons, Donna Barber, Judy Phillips and Seward.

In the seventh grade play-offs, first place went to Judy Pratt's team mates: Lucretia Slagill, Margaretha Schleif, Marilyn Stafford, Sally Smith, Carol Kreger, Patty Hall, Nancy Stevens, Jean Dunford, Joyce Dunford, Lola Nowlin, Carol Dennstedt, Jean Lee and Judith Nelson.

Second place, captained by Barbara Ropp, and Leah Cox, June Brannon, Carol Skarda, Marilyn Bunch, Lillian Good, Rosemary Blalock, Valerie Cruz, Mercedes Alverez, Bonnie Gregory, Patricia Pfister, Mary MacArthur, Lupe Sotello, Lela Bearden and Linda Young.

Third place honors went to Captain Janet Achilles and Norma Cradoct, Janet Williar, Colleen Day, Betty Meyers, Janice Yeargin, Barbara Hawkins, Barbara Clifton, Virginia Ralston, Gloria Herr, Beverly Loper, Dee Ann Duea, Helen Frey and Nancy Smith.

The girls of the Junior High are studying football its rules, scoring, tactics, etc. No actual practice will take place, other than passing and punting.

OTHER SCHOOL NEWS

Because tomorrow (Friday), Armistice Day, is a holiday Byron L. Netzley, district superintendent, has announced that public schools throughout the Lemon Grove District will be closed.

The second grade children in Mrs. O. Mason's room went to San Diego last week to visit a fire station. Room mothers, Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Webster and the bus driver, Mrs. Schmidt, helped the group have a safe trip.

Before they left the school, the class discussed the things which they wished to investigate at the fire house. They were shown the ticker tape, and how the alarms are recorded at the station. They also saw a pumper fire truck and the various tools with which the firemen work. The hook and ladder truck fascinated the little children most, although the life net demanded a lot of attention.

When the class returned to school, they talked about the trip annd thus discovered that all their questions, asked before hand had been answered. The chidren then drew pictures, made booklets and wrote stories about the experience.

Through the courtesy of John A. van Gilse, the junior patrol boys will be admitted to the Grove Theatre this Saturday, as guests of the theatre. The following boys will be in the party: Travis Keeton, Steve Griggs, Robert Towles, Ron Netzley, Bill Vaughn, Robert Chapple, Bernard Griggs, Dan O'Donnell, Martin Small, Grady Redding, Gene Sowers, Roy Maxted and Joe Coata.

By MARGE ELLISON

The Aztec Riders held their monthly meeting Friday with these officers nominated for 1950 Ralph Rose, president; Frank Wagner and Jim Crosley, vice-presidents: Sophia Crosley, secretary; Martha Purdy, treasurer; Mrs. Marge Ellison, trustee (to fill a three year term). Election of officers is slated for the meeting on December 2 and all members are requested to be in attendance. Nominations are still open, so the December meeting promises to be interesting.

The new officers elected for the San Diego National Horse show are: Stewart H. Moore, president; Frank Evans, vice-president; Dr. Clifton Williams, treasurer; Mrs. Gladys Kibbee, secretary. They are already formulating plans for their Fifth Annual Horse Show at Del Mar next year.

Next Friday evening the San Diego Riding Club will entertain spectators with a free Circus Night and if it's as entertaining and enjoyable as the one last year, it will be well worth seeing. Mark your calendar for Friday night and we'll meet at the San Diego Riding Club in Mission Valley.

A horse show and rodeo is scheduled at the Lazy A Ranch, Palm City, on Sunday fternoon, November 20th. These affairs are usually full of action and always well attended.

Next weekend the Rock 'N Ride Riders will be guests of George Daley at his ranch in Jamul, leaving from their ring Saturday p. m. to return Sunday. Let's hope the weather is just right.

Many of the local horsemen will be seen in the Armistice Day Parade in San Diego, sponsored by American Legion. The parade starts at 12:30 p.m., and going up Broadway to the Balboa Stadium where there will be exhibitions on the field, followed by a football game at 2:30.

An Armistice Day parade in El Cajon City leaves at 10 a.m. from the El Cajon Grammar School proceeding to the Veteran's Field where an impressive Armistice Day program is scheduled. In Preceding years, there has always been a good turn-out of riders in El Cajon's Armistice Day Celebration.

The Big Four Stage Coach Company has been formed in San Diego. Walter Barber, Roscoe Hazard, Henry Fenton and George Daley, all ardent horsemen, are the co-owners of an old, but very well preserved, stage-coach brought here from the northern part of the state where it was used quite extensively at the height of the gold rush. The coach is drawn by four black and white pinto horses and creates a striking picture.

The Borrego Rancheros Ride from Coyote Canyon in the Anza Desert to Warners is scheduled for November 25 and 26.

At the Bar-O Gymkhana last Sunday, at the Hazard-Culnan Stables in Mission Valley, all events were run against time and there was no judging. A good time was had by all and the following is a list of winners of events: Trail horse, Charlene Patton; Bending race, Bob Farrell; Musical stalls, Joyce Van Zandt; Sack roping, Bill Patton; Carrying cans, Walt Edis; Carrying the mail, Mr. and Mrs. W. Edis; grand trophy for the most points, Walt Edis. Roy Williams suffered a dislocated shoulder when his horse stumbled. He received first aid by Dr. D. Rolph, a Bar-O member, and then was taken to a hospital. In the Musical stalls event, Nan Funcheon's horse fell, but there was no injury to horse nor rider. Maj. L. G. Otto gave a special exhibition on Ed Cullnan's dressage mare, Cathy.

Many riders in this area will remember Ray York, of La Mesa, who caused quite a sensation at the horse shows a year ago when he participated in musical chairs and, because of his "pony" size, had sort of a rope ladder arrangement to scramble up on his 15.2 horse. Ray is now doing very well as an apprentice jockey, and this year has ridden repeatedly at Bay Meadows and Agua Caliente.

Wally and Babs Miller, of El Cajon, had some bad luck last week when their barn burned, but fast work saved the horses and the house.

The recent edition of the Southland Equestrian Journal, which was mailed out the first of the month is a combination issue for October and November and contains an interesting assortment of horse news from far and near. Readers are generous in their praise of the articles and pictures it contains. Subscriptions are pyramiding since this edition came out.

Adult Fellowship of Vista La Mesa Christian Church

The Young Adult Fellowship of Vista La Mesa Christian Church is growing in a constructive way. Friday evening, the members met in the home of the counselor, Mrs. Irvine Smith, for a planning meeting. One of the major items on the agenda was the selection of a course dealing with the Christian Home and family life for the next quarter, January through March. Members of the study committee took home several books to examine before their committee meeting on Monday evening, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hilton. The first service project is to make anthem folder covers and present to the church choir to be used for the first time when new robes are worn on Sunday, November 20. The work party will meet in the home of Miss Charlene Berry, 4517 Lee street, on Friday evening.

Several of the fellows have joined the church's basketball team for competition in the San Diego inter-church league.

The other committees, enlistment and worship, are scheduling special meetings for the near future to plan the work for the rest of the year. Gregory Boddy is president of this active group of college age and young married couples.

Roland Sheafer of the Board of Church Extension of Disciples of Christ is meeting with the official board on Friday night to discuss the need of building expansion and plans for a new educational unit for the local church.

Several teachers of the Sunday School plan to attend the children's work shop in Central Christian Church, San Diego, today (Thursday).
